

Grace Daily Readings

Dear Friends,

This month is completely entrenched in Common Time so there is not an obvious theme that runs through our readings like their might be during Lent or Advent. The one thing that sticks out to me is a number of readings from Corinthians. Modern Scholars attribute the letter to Sosthenes, written at Paul's instruction. Written in about 54 CE, the Letters to the Church at Corinth were written to encourage and correct the fledgling faith community founded just 4 years earlier. In the letters and through Sosthenes, Paul's scribe, the apostle instructs the Corinthians concerning quarreling and division among them. To be honest, the Corinthians were Paul's problem children, struggling with human distinctions and opinions that got in the way of their unity and witness to the world around them. Paul reminds them that now they see through a glass dimly, but one day they will see everything clearly. Enjoy a glimpse into the world of 1st century Corinth!
